

2008 BALTIMORE RAVENS COVERAGE
MAXIMUM ACCESS - ALL SEASON LONG

UPDATES | NEWS | VIDEO | STATS mashSPORTS.com

How 'bout Haloti?

By Dan Kolko on November 9, 2008 1:35 PM | Permalink | Comments \(0\)

Haloti Ngata is having himself a Pro Bowl-caliber season, and he just added another line to his resume.

With the Texans having a 1st and Goal at the Baltimore one yard line, Ngata made a fantastic individual effort to keep Houston off the board.

He dropped into coverage, tipped a Sage Rosenfels pass into the air, then made a diving catch in the end zone for the interception.

Ngata was reading Rosenfels' eyes the whole way, and Sage didn't spot the third-year defensive tackle. (How you can't see a 345 pound human being, I don't know.)

Making the deflection was a great play in itself, but having the presence of mind to locate the ball and make the pick was huge.

Ngata now has two INTs this season after having just one in his two previous years.

